However, San Joaquin County's vaccination rollout is facing the complication of the pause in administering the Johnson & Johnson vaccine.

Federal agencies, including the CDC, called for a halt to J&J administrations out of a
"abundance of caution" on Tuesday after six woman developed rare blood clots. More than 7 million people across the United States have received the J&J vaccine.

San Joaquin County's main mass vaccination site at the Stockton Arena only administers the J&J shot. The clinic, which opened last week after delays due to supply, administers as many as 5,400 shots a day.
